

THE HALL-MILLS CASE

THE MYSTERIOUS JERSEY TRAGEDYWATCH FOR TOMORROW'S INSTALLMENT

The Mills home is a modest affair, just an ordinary two story and basement frame dwelling, but it was good enough for Jimmy Mills and his wife until Dr. Hall appeared on their marital horizon to cast a sinister shadow across the portal.

In the kitchen of this same home, Charlotte Mills, young daughter of the couple, cooked her father's meals while her mother was carrying on the illicit romance with the minister, an affair of which this girl was well aware, even if her father was not.

Jimmy Mills turned a deaf ear and closed his eyes to all he heard and saw concerning his wife and the minister, never for a moment suspecting that in this extraordinary companionship there was anything wrong.

In striking contrast to the modest Mills home is the pretentious Hall mansion, within the walls of which Mrs. Hall, like Jimmy Mills, lived in ignorance of the illicit relations existing between her husband and his favorite choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Mrs. Hall Assumes

of one of the Hall-Mills defendants, remained in the studio.

When asked why she had not patronized a New Brunswick photographer rather than motor forty miles to Princeton, Mrs. Hall declared:—

"Because I wanted to be safe from prying eyes. Every mail brings scores of letters, couched in the most vile language, to my home."

"My anonymous critics call me a murderess, a woman with a heart of stone, and even worse things. They hope that I hang, they wish me life imprisonment."

"In each instance, the writers base their prejudice upon pictures of me they have seen in newspapers. These photographs are unfair to me."

"Upon the advice of my attorney, I am having these artistic pictures made. I want them to be placed in the hands of every editor in the land."

As she packed her suitcase (she had brought three changes of costume with her), Mrs. Hall admonished the photographer:—

"Be sure and identify me as Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall in your captions. I wish to retain my husband's name. He had done no wrong in my eyes, and I want to be known during the remainder of my life as the widow of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall."

Besieged for the new pictures, Mrs. Hall referred reporters to the studio man, who obliged—at $5 a copy.

and one of the important cogs in the state machinery.

Gorsline's Life Threatened.

It was said that the life of the vestryman has been threatened and that on Saturday night he was informed over the telephone that he never would be allowed to testify. The call was from a rough-voiced man representing himself as a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

The report that Mrs. Gibson, whose pig farm adjoins the tract where Dr. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills were slain, had disappeared created a furor. Senator Simpson plainly was perplexed and anxious.

Since she appeared before the grand jury and testified to being on the Phillips farm the night of the murders, she has been under a constant guard. State troopers have at all times been on the alert outside her home and this fact only adds more mystery to the rather awkward situation.

Hears Report Over Phone

Just how Mrs. Gibson could leave of her own volition, or be spirited away was more than Senator Simpson and his associates could explain. It was suggested that the state, as a means of protection, had taken her to some secret place far removed from those opposed to her appearance at the trial.

"Such a thing is ridiculous," the senator retorted.

Simpson was giving his morning interview to newspaper men when summoned to the telephone. On his return to the room in which the reporters were gathered, he said:—

"Underwood has just told me that the 'pig woman' has disappeared."

Pressed for further information, the special prosecutor explained that his bare statement constituted his only knowledge of the startling situation. He admitted that he had recently heard a report that an attempt had been made to burn Mrs. Gibson's home and that a quantity of excelsior and kerosene had been found near the building.

Minister Disappears

While the excitement over Mrs. Gibson was at its height a process server arrived with the information that Dr. Hamborsky had dropped from sight. It was the minister who, at a preliminary hearing, testified Dr. Hall had told him he had been threatened by Henry Stevens because of his illicit affair with Mrs. Mills.

Dr. Hamborsky is no longer pastor of the church to which he was attached here. He recently had been engaged in the real estate business and made his home at 118 Goodrich St., Astoria, L. I.

Visited Him Week Ago

Simpson recalled that the clergyman had visited him a week ago with a story of financial straits. A Wall Street banker, Dr. Hamborsky is alleged to have said, told him he was a "fool to get mixed up" in the case and had refused to renew certain loans.

"As a result I was wiped out," Simpson says the minister declared. At his own request, Senator Simpson assigned three of his best detectives to Ralph Gorsline today.

One of the sleuths remained at his elbow throughout the morning and accompanied him to lunch. It is planned not to leave him unguarded for a single moment from now until the case is closed.

Whether Gorsline actually told a Burns detective that he had seen Henry Stevens at the Phillips farm on the night of the murders, that Stevens fired two shots from a revolver into the ground and ordered the vestryman away with the explanation it was a "private affair," is the subject of much speculation.

Challenges Prosecution

Jacob R. Lefferts, attorney for Gorsline, challenged the prosecution this afternoon to produce the man who is pictured as having signed the affidavit.

"Gorsline and I will meet him in Inspector Underwood's office or any other place," the lawyer declared. "All we want is to be brought face to face with him. Then we'll see who's telling the truth."

This sudden turn in the affairs of the prosecution ranked in public interest with the announcement of Timothy Pfaiffer, of defense counsel, that Mrs. Hall and her brothers will take the witness stand in their own behalf.

That the state will have an opportunity to question Willie Stevens, characterized as having the mind of a 14-year-old child, came as a distinct surprise to everybody connected with the case.

Twenty-five Subpoenas Issued

Twenty-five subpoenas for state witnesses were issued today, thus bringing the total up to 126, the remainder having been served over the week end. Some of these, it is said, are for persons whose names have not been mentioned in the investigation.

The special prosecutor this afternoon reiterated that Henry L. Dickman, former state trooper, who accused Henry Carpenter, the fourth defendant and a cousin of the Stevenses, with attempted bribery and named the late prosecutor of Somerset county, Azariah Beekman, will positively go on the stand.

As to the question of being able to obtain without much delay a jury to hear the case, Senator Simpson is displaying no anxiety.
